ROOSEVELT MAY VETO NAVAL BILL

MUST CONTAIN APPROPRIATION FOR BATTLESHIPS.

THREAT PRODUCES RESULTS

HALE WILL OFFER AMENDMENT IN SENATE.

PRESIDENT MADE RIDICULOUS

By Authorizing and Not Appropriating for Ships Would Belittle Chief Executive's Campaign for Greater Navy—"Travesty," Says Roosevelt.

WASHINGTON, April 22.—President Roosevelt will veto the naval appropriation bill should the Senate, as did the House, fail to make any appropriation for the two battleships which are authorized in the bill.

The prompt announcement of this fact to the Senate leaders is probably responsible for the announcement of Mr. Hale that he would propose an amendment of $7,000,000 toward the construction of those ships.

The President stated his decision with usual emphatic manner today, upon learning that the bill passed by the House was simply a paper provision for those ships. The authorization was made by the House, but no money was appropriated. Such legislation as this, the President made known to his numerous congressional callers, is a travesty to effectiveness, bearing all the earmarks of legislative ledgermain intended to make ridiculous his campaign for a greater navy.

Action will Be Effective.

That the President's quick and vigorous action is to be effective is evidenced by the action of Chairman Hale, of the Senate naval committee, in announcing that at the proper time he will propose the $7,000,000 amendment. As to his threat of veto, the President made it plain that should the wisdom of Congress result in the passage of a bill providing for no naval increase whatever, he would have no ground whatever upon which to veto the measure. Any attempt at what he regards as a travesty on legislation, by authorizing and not appropriating for ships, he declares he will defeat by the exercise of his constitutional power to zero. There is not the slightest indication that the President has ceased his fight for four battleships, according to senators who talked to him today. Senators who are with the President in his fight on this proposition admit tonight that a careful survey of their strength in the Senate gives but a vote of 25 in that body in favor of the President's naval program for four ships. Significance is attached to this poll of the Senate, in that it is said to show a loss to the President of some of his heretofore staunchest supporters in that body.

Senator Lodge is understood to have quit the fight for the full naval program advocated by the President and to have given his reasons personally to the President for so doing. The loss of the influence of the Massachusetts senator is regarded as responsible for the weakness shown by the poll, as it is believed by those favoring the program that had the President's senatorial supporters entered the fight with the vigor he has evidenced, his desire in this direction might have been realized.

Senator Hale Explains.

WASHINGTON, April 22.—When consideration of the naval appropriation bill was resumed in the Senate today, Mr. Hale, referring to a publication "in a New York paper," which he said, announced war outside and inside the Senate, explained why an appropriation for the new battleships and submarines had not been placed in the bill, either in the House or the Senate. The House, he said, voted the appropriation down on the ground that it would not be needed until next December and the Senate committee had not put it in the bill because no estimate of the amount that could be expended had been received from the department. Since the bill was reported, he said, the estimates, amounting to $7,000,000 had been received and he would add that amount as an amendment to the bill, thus increasing to that extent the already heavy appropriations for the navy.

"I say this," added Mr. Hale, "in order that senators and newspaper men and all others may possess their souls in peace."

Answering an inquiry by Mr. Clay, Senator Hale said it was necessary to begin to repair the vessels almost as soon as they are set afloat. When repairs reach the original cost, he added, "it is discovered a vessel is obsolete."

Mr. Hale did not find favor with Sir William White, formerly head of the British admiralty, who has stated that the United States has the finest fleet in the world and that the excellency of our navy is due to the fact that we waited to build ships, while Great Britain spent hundreds of millions of dollars upon ships that have become obsolete.

"Expense Has Only Begun."

"The ships you have are the best of their kind," he told me," said Mr. Hale. "But you will find, just as we have found, expense of a great navy only begins when you have built the ships."

Mr. Hale introduced the naval bill so far as it provides for an increase in the navy and the marine corps, saying that when the increase for the army was proposed it was placed in a separate bill and brought into the Senate early in the session, so that full discussion on it could be had. He referred to the recent remarks of Senator Hale in the Senate, in which the senator from Maine commented on a newspaper article stating that the policy of the secretary of war has been to increase the regular army to 125,000 men. Mr. Warren said there seemed to be a feeling of resentment toward every proposition to enlarge the army, and since the speech of the senator from Maine there had been widespread comment on the extravagance of appropriations for that branch of the service. Now, he said, the navy bill is before the Senate with

PRESIDENT SIGNS BILL

EMPLOYERS LIABILITY LAW A REALITY.

Railroads or Other Common Carriers Liable for Injury or Death of Employes.

WASHINGTON, April 22.—President Roosevelt today signed the employers liability bill on receiving an opinion from Attorney General Bonaparte that the measure was constitutional.

The bill makes railroads or other common carriers, while engaged in interstate commerce, liable for the injury or death of an employe if the injury or death results in whole or in part from the negligence of any of the officers, agents or employes of such carriers, or by reason of any defect or insufficient equipment. This bill is made applicable to carriers in the territories, the District of Columbia, the Panama canal zone and other possessions of the United States.

It is provided than in any action brought under the provisions of the bill the injured employe shall not be held to have assumed the risk of his employment in any case where the violation by the carrier of any statute enacted for the safety of employes contributed to the injury or death of the employe. Any contract, rule, regulation or device to enable the carrier to exempt itself from liability under the act, is rendered void by a specific declaration to that end. Provision is made, however, that the carrier shall receive credit for any contribution made to the employe or his family in the form of insurance, relief, benefit or indemnity. An action for the recovery of damages must be commenced within two years from the date of the cause of the suit.

In his opinion, the attorney general indicates that the bill is confined in its scope to "common carriers by railroad," as distinguished from the act declared unconstitutional by the supreme court which embraced "all common carriers engaged in interstate commerce and foreign commerce."

The attorney general then shows, through court decisions and constitutional interpretations, that this restriction does not make the act repugnant to the constitution, but is in line with the state statutes which have been upheld in the highest tribunals.

PROVISIONS OF 16-HOUR LAW

Managers of Western Roads Announce Their Agreement as to Its Application.

CHICAGO, April 22.—The general managers of the principal railways west of Chicago and the representatives of men engaged in train service announced today their agreement as to the application of the 16-hour law. Crews are not to be tied up unless it is apparent that the trip cannot be completed with the lawful time, and not then until after the expiration of 14 hours on duty under the federal law or within two hours of the time limit provided by state laws if state laws govern. Crews tied up by a less number of hours than mentioned above are to be regarded as tied up under the law, and will be paid. When crews are tied up between terminals, under the law, they are to be considered on duty and under pay immediately on the expiration of the minimum legal period of duty, applicable to the crew, provided the period of rest for any member, eight or 10 hours, be the period of rest for the entire crews. Crews tied up will be paid the time or milage of their schedules from initial point to tie-up point and when "towed or dead headed" into terminals will be paid the same as if the run were made. Pay is allowed for any service for an engine crew if held responsible for the engine.

PROGRAM MAPPED OUT

COMPROMISE ON CURRENCY LEGISLATION PROBABLE.

Conference Held Between House and Senate Leaders Acceptable Bill May Be Framed.

WASHINGTON, April 22.—A conference on currency legislation was held today between the House and Senate leaders, and was attended by Speaker Cannon and Senator Aldrich. The judgment of the conference was that the program lately decided on can be put through. This program calls for a caucus of the Republican members of the House, probably next week, or the week following, to determine the passage of a bill creating a commission to investigate thoroughly the currency subject and the financial situation of the country in general and report on remedial legislation at the next session of Congress.

DANCE IN HONOR NAVAL OFFICERS

FUNCTION RIVALS INAUGURAL BALL IN BRILLIANCY.

PACIFIC SWEPT BY A STORM

INCLEMENT WEATHER INTERFERES WITH PROGRAM.

SPORTS ARE INTERRUPTED

Boxing Bouts, Boat Races, Wild West Show and Other Entertainments Declared Off—Attention Shown Fleet by Los Angeles Appreciated.

LOS ANGELES, Cal., April 22.—A ball rivaling in its wealth and brilliant effects an inaugural function at Washington, tonight brought to a close the fifth day of the stay of the American battleship fleet at port of Los Angeles. The dance was given in the immense Shriners' auditorium, in honor of the armitals and officers of the fleet and it is estimated that more than 1,200 couples took part in the grand march, which was led by Rear Admiral Charles M. Thomas and Mrs. Adna R. Chaffee, wife of General Chaffee, chairman of the officers entertainment committee.

The officers all were attired in full evening dress uniform and the glitter of gold lace mingled everywhere with the blended colors of splendid gowns worn by the ladies. The program of dancing was a long one, being started promptly at 9:30 o'clock and calling for carriages at 3 a. m. Suppers were served at 1:30 p. m. and at 1 a. m. in a dining room which was decorated in a fashion almost as elaborate as the auditorium itself.

Last Big Function.

The ball was the last big public function of the fleet's stay and it took rank with the admirals' banquet of last Monday evening as a notable event in the society of the city. It brought to an exceptionally happy conclusion a day of leaden skies and heavy showers which caused a postponement of most of the outdoor celebrations, including the boxing bouts, the barbecues and wild west shows, which have constituted the most generous and lavish entertainments ever planned anywhere in honor of the enlisted men of the United States navy.

More than 3,000 bluejackets and marines came ashore in the early morning and while disappointed that the principal features of the day had to be abandoned, turned to and had a good time, despite the rain. They reefed their flapping trouser legs and blouses, made snug their flat-topped caps and went galloping through the city on horseback in large numbers. Others, with faces wreathed in smiles, were whirled about in automobiles to their very evident delight, and still others were entertained at indoor luncheons, matinees and theater parties in the evening. Three-fourths of the fleet entertainment fund raised in this city has been spent on the enlisted men. They have shown their appreciation of the attention devoted to them by making a record of conduct, which reflects a standard of the present enlisted force of the naval establishment.

Storm Makes Heavy Sea.

Today's storm put an end to many entertainments afloat as well as on shore, a stiff breeze from the southwest piled up a heavy sea at the beaches, where three of the four divisions are anchored and made boating too dangerous to be attempted during a greater part of the forenoon and until well along toward evening. The first of the ship launches sent away to the shore in the early morning, made safe enough journeys, but they danced about in a fashion too lively for inexperienced navigators and orders were sent out that no visiting parties would be allowed on board any of the ships at Long Beach, Redondo and Santa Monica. The ships of the first division, the Connecticut, Kansas, Vermont and Louisiana, anchored in the lee of the long protecting breakwater at San Pedro, and did not feel the effects of the blow and the rough water outside. They were open to visitors thoroughout the day and several hundred persons braved the weather and the wet launches to get a glimpse of the big vessels.

During the morning, the Connecticut was open only to school children and big parties of eager-eyed girls and boys were guided to all the points of interest. At one time there were 300 of the children on board. They gathered on the forward deck and accompanied by the ship's band sang "America." The sailors gave them three cheers when they were taken off on an excursion steamer.

Pleasure Launch Goes Ashore.

The large flotillas of pleasure launches of the Kinivan Yacht Club, despite the weather of the blow, one going ashore at Venice and several others having narrow escapes from disaster. Distress signals were going on at a lively rate during the morning. The ships anchored in the open water put out extra anchors during the afternoon. No damage of any sort was done, however. It was felt that the greatest danger of mishap in receiving visitors aboard would be in transferring them from the shore launches to the small platform of the ships' gangways, and it was decided to take no chances. Several parties of school children got aboard the ships of the second division at Long Beach early in the day and were taken off in safety and comfort without trouble. Tonight's ball was the crowning of a social week of the fleet.

has ever known. Ten thousand incandescent bulbs of red, white and blue and a lavish use of flags and patriotic bunting transformed the bare walls and ceiling of the big auditorium into a mass of waving colors. Long streamers of red and white bunting formed a canopy over the heads of the dancers, the centerpieces of the ceiling decorations being a huge union jack, showing 46 white electric stars on its field of blue. The edge of the jack was outlined in blue electric bulbs. Ropes of asparagus ferns were looped in graceful festoons below the bunting. Balcony rails were lined with flags and lights, and two immense flags, made especially for the occasion, formed a portiere effect in front of the stage, where a marine band was stationed. A rear admiral's flag of blue, with two white stars, also formed a part of the stage decorations. Several thousand clusters of sweet peas and 20,000 carnations were used in the decoration of the supper room.

A unique feature during the evening was the playing of 10 small searchlights upon the dancers. The different colored slides tinted the rays from the

MEETS INSTANT DEATH

LOCOMOTIVE HURLS A. H. MATTHEWS INTO ETERNITY.

Well-known Rock Island Engineer of This City Killed at Perry View, Kan., on Siding.

Struck on the back by the pilot of a fast locomotive, tossed high in the air and falling to the ground 50 feet away, A. H. Matthews of this city, for many years an engineer on the Rock Island railroad, met instant death at Perry View, a few miles from Phillipsburg, Kan., 300 miles from Colorado Springs, at 7:15 o'clock yesterday morning. He is survived by a widow, Mrs. Blanche M. Matthews, and two children, of 515 Main street, Roswell.

The tragedy occurred while Matthews was oiling his engine. He was running westbound passenger train No. 81, a local between Phillipsburg and Goodland, and had drawn up on a siding at Perry View to permit passenger train No. 8, which left Colorado Springs for Chicago at 9:40 o'clock Tuesday night, to pass on the main track. The engineer got too near the main track, and before the engineer of the flying eastbound express could stop, or even slacken speed, the helpless man was caught by the pilot and hurled to his death.

Matthews was 39 years old. He had been employed as engineer for the Rock Island for many years, had lived in Colorado Springs and vicinity almost all his life. His parents were old settlers in El Paso county. Matthews was a prominent member of Manitou lodge No. 57, Knights of Pythias.

The body will be brought to this city today and prepared for burial by Fleming and Patterson. Funeral services will be held from the family residence in Roswell at 2 o'clock tomorrow afternoon. The Rev. Ross McClement, who is visiting in Colorado Springs, will officiate. Interment will be in Evergreen cemetery.

Weirdly coincident with Matthews' tragic death is the prophecy of a fortune teller, according to a friend of the dead engineer. Matthews had little faith in clairvoyants, but went with his friend at his solicitation to consult a medium, more for the joke of the matter than anything else. The fortune teller told Matthews that she saw him jump from his engine to instant death. "Not much," answered Matthews; "I wouldn't jump from my engine in time of danger and if I am killed, it will be riding in my cab." Although the railroad man did not jump, as predicted, he swung himself from his cab only a few moments before the onrushing train carried out the fatal prediction of the fortune teller.

BOMB OUTRAGE IN OAKLAND

Attempt Made on Life of J. L. Gallagher by Blowing Up House. No Fatalities.

OAKLAND, Cal., April 22.—An evident attempt was made upon the life of J. L. Gallagher, one of the main witnesses for the prosecution in the San Francisco bribery cases tonight, at the home of William H. S. Schenck, his brother-in-law, at East Twentieth street and Nineteenth avenue, East Oakland, when a huge bomb placed in the porch exploded and tore away the whole front of the house.

Gallagher was upstairs with his wife at the time, and Schenck was in a rear room with his wife and four children and Dr. Guy Brown. All escaped but one boy, who was hit in the neck by a flying missile. Gallagher's hat was pierced by a splinter and taken away as a souvenir. The house was completely wrecked.

CREW HAS NARROW ESCAPE

Gasoline Fishing Schooner Blows Up off Cape Scott.

VANCOUVER, B. C., April 22.—The 45-ton gasoline fishing schooner, Clara T., of Tacoma, was blown up off Cape Scott on Sunday night and the crew of 11 men had barely time to escape in the dories with nothing but the clothes on their backs.

The shipwrecked crew had to row to Carlet Point light house, nearly 50 miles away, for food and shelter. It was late on Monday afternoon before they reached that haven, the entire night and day being spent without food or water and every man was drenched to the skin in a heavy rainstorm. Captain Hansen and his crew were picked up by the Halibut schooner, Celestial Empire of this city, on her return from the north on Tuesday and brought into port today.

"PULP" THE TIE THAT BINDS

Commoner Gains Support of All Newspapers by Taking Up This Phase of Tariff Question—Associated Press and Newspaper Publishers Meet.

NEW YORK, April 22.—There was a notable gathering of editors and publishers at the Waldorf Astoria tonight, the occasion being a joint banquet of the Associated Press and the American Newspaper Publishers association, both of which are holding their annual meetings in this city. Every state and territory of the United States was represented by those who have earned distinction in the newspaper profession, and their guests included William J. Bryan, Senator Knox and others of public influence.

The grand ballroom was filled to the limit of comfort when the six hundred diners had found their places. The boxes, half hidden by the wealth of carnations and apple blossoms, were occupied by the families and friends of the banquetters.

At the president's table were General Charles H. Taylor of the Boston Globe, the toastmaster; Herman Ridder, editor New York Staats Zietung and president of American Publishers association; Frank B. Noyes of the Chicago Record-Herald, president of the Associated Press; Senator Knox, Mr. Bryan, Bishop Burgess of the Episcopal dioces of Long Island, Babbi Steppens Wise, of the Free synagogue, Patrick Francis Murphy, officials of the two organizations and others.

Mr. Ridder began the evening's formalities by proposing the health of the President of the United States. The toast was drunk standing, while the orchestra played "The Star Spangled Banner."

Governor Hughes Absent.

General Taylor, who was introduced by the toastmaster, and who made a few remarks, explained the unavoidable absence of Governor Hughes, whose presence had been hoped for, but whose official duties made it necessary for him to remain in Albany.

Rabbi Wise addressed the diners as "fellow muck-rakers," and for a half hour kept them in roars of laughter as he related a series of pointed incidents. In a more serious vein he discussed the influence of the press, saying that he "would venture to say that the man with the greatest power, the man who perhaps does more to shape things in the United States than anyone else, is the manager of the Associated Press."

Mr. Bryan, who had received a cordial greeting when he entered the dining hall, was given another kindly expression as he rose to speak. Mr. Bryan spoke for some moments in a humorous line of thought, replying in kind to earlier sallies at his expense. He then said:

Associated Press Important Factor.

The Associated Press is a very important factor in the spread of that information which is necessary for the formation of opinion, and in casting about for a subject nothing more apposite has occurred to me than the Bible passage: 'Know the truth and the truth shall make you free.'

It should be the purpose of the Associated Press to convey to its numerous subscribers the unbiased, uncolored truth. I realize that this is extremely difficult and that with even the best of intentions those who report interviews, conventions and events will, unintentionally inject their own opinions, and yet absolute impartiality must be the ideal at which the Associated Press aims. You furnish news to Republican papers, Democratic papers, papers identified with other parties and to independent papers, and the reader of these Associated Press reports represent every phase of opinion.

Bryan Appreciative.

I take this opportunity to express my appreciation of the treatment that has been accorded me. The press has asked me for advance copies of a great many more speeches than I have been able to give it, and in asking for this courtesy it has furnished the proof that it has wanted to treat me with fairness. Through the Associated Press I have been able to get my ideas and my arguments before the readers of the Republican papers, and I have been less concerned about the editorial comments of Republican papers than about the correctness of the news report.

It occurs to me that this is a good place to present a thought which I [illegible] The metropolitan newspaper is becoming more and more a business enterprise and less and less a political [illegible]. The editorial columns of the big papers are nonpolitical, and where the circulation is large the readers are so divided politically that the paper is by this very fact compelled from aggressive partisanship. Man, too, the owner of a big newspaper is seldom able to do the editorial work, and as he must depend upon others to write the editorials the paper becomes less and less the representative of the opinions of anyone. As the years go by, and as the circulation and advertising patronage increase, the papers show an increasing inclination toward political independence.

Suggestion to Publishers.

[illegible] of this country [illegible] more [illegible] it would be [illegible] that the [illegible] much easier for a paper to be bipartisan than nonpartisan; that is, it is easier to represent both sides than to discuss public questions without taking either side. If the proprietor really wanted to conduct a nonpartisan paper, and if the readers really want to subscribe for a nonpartisan paper, why would not both proprietor and reader be better satisfied with a paper which represented the news impartially in its news columns and then gave to each party representation on its editorial page? If, for instance, a big metropolitan paper wants to become really independent, why should it not employ a representative of each of the parties to furnish signed editorials on political questions? Such a paper would appeal to all parties and especially to those who are anxious to know both sides of every public question.

Is it not an experiment worth trying? The so-called independent paper is very apt to become partisan just before the

AGENTS ARE ORGANIZED

FIRE INSURANCE MEN FORM ASSOCIATION.

Frank H. Dunnington Is Chosen President—L. P. Terhune Explains Working of Schedule.

Formal organization of the fire insurance agents of Colorado Springs was effected at a meeting held last night in the offices of the State Realty company, 25 East Pikes Peak avenue. A constitution and by-laws were adopted, officers elected and the objects of the new organization set forth. The name of the new organization is the Fire Insurance Agents association of Colorado Springs.

Officers chosen for the new association are as follows:

President, Frank H. Dunnington; vice president, George Milone; secretary, Fred C. Haupt; treasurer, A. J. Lawton.

The objects of the association are social, educational and for the betterment of fire insurance conditions in the city. There are about 40 agents in the city, and those who were not at the meeting held last night expressed their desire to join.

The chief features of interest were the adoption of the Dean schedule of rates, to go into effect next Monday, April 27, and an address by L. P. Terhune, inspector for the Rocky Mountain Fire Underwriters association, of Denver.

The new schedule will have the effect of lowering the rates on brick buildings in the business district, of increasing rates on the contents of these buildings and increasing the rates on frame buildings. There will be no change in the rates on residence property.

Members of the new association want the fact made plain to the public that there is no desire on their part to raise the rates that have been in force, but merely to angot the same schedule that prevails in Denver, Pueblo and other cities in the state. The object in the adoption of the new schedule, as set forth by the insurance men, is to reduce the fire risk to a minimum.

That those who are affected by the raise in rates may learn the reasons for the increase, Mr. Terhune, representing the association, will maintain headquarters at room 233 Alamo hotel for the next two weeks. He will be glad to meet all property owners for the purpose of explaining the operation of the new system.

IRVINE GETS NEEDED SUPPORT

Business Men Come to Rescue with Funds for Midland Band Concerts.

Regardless of the action of the county commissioners in cutting off the appropriations heretofore made for music during past seasons, the Midland band concerts will not be diminished in number during the summer. It has been the practice of the county commissioners to pay for the Saturday matinee concerts of the famous band, so that the discontinuance of this appropriation was embarrassing to not only Harry T. Irvine, the director, but citizens and visitors in general.

Director Irvine showed himself competent to meet a financial emergency with the same ability displayed in handling his concert band. Immediately upon hearing that the support of the county would be withdrawn he called personally upon the leading business men, with the result that he now has a sufficient guarantee to insure the Saturday afternoon concerts during the season.

The importance of amusements for summer visitors to the city is keenly realized by the business men, so that but little difficulty was experienced in raising the necessary amount to insure the concerts that would have been cut out by the action of the county commissioners.

EX-PREMIER OF ENGLAND DEAD

SIR HENRY CAMPBELL-BANNERMAN PASSES AWAY.

HEART FAILURE CAUSES DEATH

END HAD BEEN EXPECTED FOR SOME TIME PAST.

OBJECT OF MUCH SOLICITUDE

Constant Stream of Callers Including King, Queen and Others of Royal Birth, at Downing Street Residence Funeral Arrangements Made.

LONDON, April 22.—Sir Henry Campbell-Bannerman passed peacefully away at 9:15 o'clock this morning. The cause of his death was heart failure.

The above bulletin issued at 10:30 o'clock this morning, announcing the death of the former British premier, after a lingering illness of more than three months, did not come as a surprise. Although the doctors' bulletins had not declared his condition critical, that fact was perfectly understood and the public had been expecting the announcement of his end at any hour during the past fortnight.

HENRY CAMPBELL-BANNERMAN

Few Persons at Bedside.

In the death chamber when the end came were his niece, Mrs. Campbell, who has resided with Sir Henry since the death of Lady Campbell-Bannerman, a little more than a year ago; Dr. Barnet, who was Mr. Campbell-Bannerman's personal physician and who had been in constant attendance during his long illness, and Sir Henry's butler.

The ex-premier had been unconscious most of the time during the last two or three days, and his sinking was gradual. A few hours before his death, telegrams were dispatched to King Edward, who with Queen Alexandra, is visiting the Danish royal family at Copenhagen; the Prince of Wales and the cabinet ministers.

Police Guard House.

Immediately newspaper reporters were keeping vigil before the house of the dying statesman, but the only news handed to them was in the form of a bulletin more than an hour after his death. A few minutes thereafter a crowd assembled in Downing street, but all persons were barred from approaching the house by a cordon of police.

Sir Henry's illness dates from February 12, when he last appeared in the house of commons and moved the closure of the Scottish land bills, although he had been ailing since November 13, 1907, when he participated at an entertainment in honor of Emperor William at the Guild hall. On November 14, after addressing a political meeting at Bristol, he was seriously stricken with heart weakness and later influenza was added to his heart trouble, bringing on his fatal illness.

Object of Much Solicitude.

The ex-premier fully appreciated his condition and realized that his recovery was improbable. He offered to give up his office some time before he formally resigned early this month. Few invalids have been the object of as much solicitude and attention as was bestowed upon Sir Henry, there having been a constant stream of callers at his Downing street residence, including King Edward, who visited him on two occasions, Queen Alexandra and the Dowager Empress of Russia, the Prince and Princess of Wales and [illegible] men in public life.

Sir Henry's last published utterance was a warm [illegible] of thanks to his Scottish friends who presented him with a portrait of himself.

Funeral Arrangements.

The funeral arrangements were [illegible] this evening. There will be a funeral service in Westminster abbey at noon on April 27, attended by [illegible] Edward and Queen Alexandra, diplomats and members of parliament, etc., and the final interment will occur at Meigle, Perthshire, beside the body of Sir Henry's wife, [illegible] the following day.

WANTS LOCAL PLYERS

PRES. GRAVES OF SPRINGS TEAM IS HERE.

Dickerson Discusses Sunday Ball. Games Won't Interfere With Church.

Completing arrangements for the opening of the baseball season at Roswell park, on May 9, and considering the question that has been raised in regard to the Sunday games, E. W. Dickerson and "Doc" Graves spent yesterday here in the interests of the Colorado Springs team of the Colorado State league. Mr. Dickerson returned to Denver last night, but will be here again tomorrow.

"Doc" Graves, the business manager of the team, is located at the Elk hotel, where he will interview any of the local players who consider themselves worthy of a tryout when the players report on May 1. While men have been signed for nearly all of the positions on the team, there are several experienced and capable fellows in Colorado Springs who can make the new players hustle to retain their places. Graves says he prefers to fill all the vacant positions with local men and assures the candidates a hearty welcome.

Improvements costing $2,000 have been decided upon at Roswell park, including a new roof over the grandstand, two coats of paint, a fence around the entire playing field, and the building of bleachers.

Regarding the protests on the Sunday games, Mr. Dickerson yesterday repeated the statement made a few days ago in The Gazette, and said:

"I cannot see how our games will interfere with the services in the church two blocks away, as the games will not begin until after the services have ended. Baseball is a healthful, honest and scientific game, and now attendance at the game can be construed into an evil influence is hard to see. The games will be conducted in an orderly manner, and it has been my object from the first to get clean young players who will be a credit to the city. To support this league, the Sunday games are necessary, and, in view of the fact that we have announced our plans for the last three months, and have already spent considerable money in organizing the league and getting together a team worthy of this city, it seems to me rather late for a protest. Workingmen should have a right to attend the national game on the only day they have. We intend to give the town a first-class baseball team, which will creditably represent the city, and believe that it will support it with its patronage."

HARVARD BEATS ANNAPOLIS

Crimson Eight Wins Two-Mile Boat Race.

ANNAPOLIS, Md., April 22.—The Harvard eight won the two-mile boat race with the midshipmen crew over the Severn river course here this afternoon by half a length. Official time, 10 minutes, 30 seconds. Rough water made the time rather slow, but it was one of the closest races ever rowed on the local course. The navy led for the first three-fourths of a mile. However, from this point the superior weight and faster stroke of the crimson counted for more than the midshipmen could offset.

Many a Colorado Springs Citizen Knows How Sure They Are.

Nothing uncertain about the work of Doan's Kidney Pills in Colorado Springs. There is plenty of positive proof of this in the testimony of citizens. Such evidence should convince the most skeptical sufferer. Read the following statement:

Charles C. Berry, tea and coffee dealer, of 1111 Washington Ave., Colorado Springs, Colo., says: "I positively know that Doan's Kidney Pills are worthy of the fullest confidence. I suffered for some time from kidney trouble. Any over-exertion caused me to feel tired and run down and my back ached constantly. I was troubled in this way for four or five months. A friend learned of my suffering and told me that the languid feeling and backache were due to a disordered condition of my kidneys and advised me to procure Doan's Kidney Pills. I obtained a box at the D. Y. Butcher Drug Co. and had only taken them a few days when I was entirely cured. It gives me great pleasure to say that the cure has proven permanent."

EX-PREMIER ENGLAND DEAD

called at the late residence of the former premier. Among the callers were Whitelaw Reid, American ambassador to the court of St. James.

Sir Henry's illness dates from February 12, when he last appeared in the house of commons and moved the closure of the Scottish land bills, although he had been ailing since November 13, 1907, when he participated at an entertainment in honor of Emperor William at the Guild hall. On November 14, after addressing a political meeting at Bristol, he was seriously stricken with heart weakness and later influenza was added to his heart trouble, bringing on his fatal illness.

The ex-premier fully appreciated his condition and realized that his recovery was improbable. He offered to give up his office some time before he formally resigned early this month. Few invalids have been the object of much solicitude and attention as was bestowed upon Sir Henry, there having been a constant stream of callers at his Downing street residence, including King Edward, who visited him on two occasions; Queen Alexandra and the Dowager Empress of Russia, the Prince and Princess of Wales and many diplomats and prominent men in public life.

Sir Henry Campbell-Bannerman was born September 7, 1836. He was the youngest son of the late Sir James Campbell, of Stracathro, Forfarshire, some time lord provost of Glasgow. He assumed the additional name under the will of his maternal uncle, the late Henry Bannerman, of Hunton Court, Kent, who bequeathed to him a large estate. He attended Glasgow university and Trinity college. He married Charlotte, daughter of Major Charles Bruce. She died in 1906, and from that time Sir Henry's decline in health may be dated.

It is further the desire of the House Republican leaders to put through the Vreeland bill, which embodies what are thought to be the best features of the Aldrich bill and eliminates the provisions to which most of the objections have been made.

All that the Senate leaders ask of the House leaders is to enact some piece of financial legislation so that the Senate will have a measure to use as a working basis, all thought of enacting the Aldrich bill in the form in which it passed the Senate having been abandoned.

The program is then to have the Senate strike out everything after the enacting clause in the House bill and to insert the Aldrich bill. This will have the effect of throwing the amended bill into conference, and care will be exercised both in the Senate and in the House to appoint as conferees members who favor some legislation at this session. It will be the task of the conferees to patch up from the Aldrich bill and Vreeland bill and the committee bill a modified act embodying such provisions as the leaders feel sure of putting through the two houses.

As far as Windy Point, they are practically clear, while above that, the deepest snowdrifts are not more than 10 feet. The water tanks are also to be put in shape. A few changes are to be made in the sidings in order that the trains may make better connections.

Within a short time, the weather bureau will begin work on the erection of its kite station on the summit for the housing of the aeroplanes with which it is to experiment this summer. These will be located near the summit house. The Cog road also is making preparations for the installation of the weather bureau at the summit house. Z. G. Simmons, vice president and principal owner of the Cog road, will remain in Manitou two or three days more.

election. This may suit the proprietor if he is anxious to make his paper a party organ. But it is sure to disappoint those who differ from him and who have become subscribers because of the claim of independence. If the proprietor honestly desires to take his paper out of politics and make it purely a newspaper, the bipartisan plan enables him to carry out his purpose. No paper can be entirely neutral in a campaign, and no editorial writer can conceal his own bias when he writes upon political subjects. If a man can write equally well on both sides, he cannot write very well on either side.

In Harmony With "A. P."

If, on the other hand, the editorials are signed by men who frankly avow their intention of presenting questions from a party standpoint, the reader can make allowance for partisanship and weigh argument against argument. Such an editorial policy would be entirely in harmony with the news service which the Associated Press organized to give; and for that reason I present the suggestion at this banquet.

Mr. Bryan had something to say also upon the tariff, and continued:

For a time, while I was urging tariff reform, when I find mighty little support among the newspaper fraternity, I found after a while that I was too general; that to get the newspaper men with me I must be specific, and so I went to my good friend, our German brother (pointing to Mr. Ridder) and asked him what I could do to be sure of the unanimous support of the newspaper fraternity in my advocacy of tariff reform. He said: "Pulp." And I took it up, and, for the first time in my life, I found myself on the side of the majority. I congratulate you that there is at least one tie that binds; that there is at least one question upon which we can be sympathetic and work together; for it costs me something as well as you.

Senator Knox followed Mr. Bryan, delivering a characteristic speech that elicited much applause.

Mr. Murphy made a witty speech in response to the toast, "Time and Chance."

Bad Faith Charged

The Newspaper Publishers association in convention assembled today, passed a resolution in which it protests against the subterfuge just designed by Speaker Cannon and Representatives Payne and Dalzell, creating a committee on paper inquiry and thereby blocking the Stevens bill for free paper and free pulp.

"We charge that this device was inspired in bad faith," the resolution states. "Since early in December 1907, a committee of this body has been clamoring at the doors of the ways and means committee for an opportunity to show that power of illegal combinations of paper makers to raise prices and effect thereon of existing tariff restriction. Messrs. Payne and Dalzell have replaced all such efforts. The speaker of the House has turned away his face whenever any member tried to raise the question. We are amazed to find that Messrs. Cannon and Dalzell have changed their tactics and avow a desire to study the tariff phases of this paper question.

"With the utmost respect and diference for the authority of Congress, we respectfully state that we mistrust the committee just appointed. We challenge the intentions of those who have thus far succeeded in sidetracking the Stevens bill. We charge that the Stevens bill has been delayed in deference to a combination of paper makers, who are making a desperate effort to maintain prices on a declining market, who have shut down many of their mills and who, in throwing out of employment many employes, have shown the insincerity of their professions that tariff duty on paper was needed to protect that paper."

provisions for an increase in the enlisted force, which it is proposed to pass in a minute.

"That is because we keep adding ships," suggested Mr. Hale.

"But the army is enlarged because we keep adding countries," retorted Mr. Warren.

"We have not added any lately, thank God," replied the senator from Maine. Mr. Hale added that he did not have the army so much in mind as he had the navy. He said he was against an increased militarism. He said he was then preparing to oppose four new battleships "and so far as that goes, I have accomplished my object," he added.

Mr. Warren had read at the desk a statement by Secretary Taft disclaiming that he was authority for the newspaper statement that he had a plan for a standing army of 125,000, and a letter from General Bell, chief of staff, declaring that he "never heard of such a thing and never thought of doubling the army."

Mr. Foraker interposed to have the speech of Secretary Taft delivered at Columbus, O., April 3, 1908, concerning enlargement of the army, printed in the record and a part of it read from the vice president's desk.

Senator Warren, with some feeling, said it looked to him that in order to get four, eight or ten battleships for the navy, the "water must be blackened around the army and public attention turned from it." He said when another bill is brought in it should be "one we know something about." He did not think the naval appropriation bill was the proper place in which to provide for a regiment of men. So far as he was concerned, he wanted to have an addition to the signal corps of the army, because that was greatly needed, but that would be comparatively a small matter.

Mr. Foraker, commenting upon the Columbus speech of Secretary Taft, said that speech indicated that the idea of the secretary was to have legislation to enable the country in the next 10 years, through the reserves as well as the regular army, to have 250,000 men under arms.

Before taking up the sections relating to battleships, the bill was laid aside until tomorrow.

The Brownsville affair and the naval appropriation bill occupied practically the entire time of the Senate today and both subjects will again be under consideration tomorrow. Senator Warner of Missouri continued his speech on the discharge of negro soldiers and quoted at considerable length from testimony taken in that case. He did not conclude his remarks and will resume tomorrow.

PAYS 8c PRICE FOR HOSE

Marion Chase Taxed $100 for Helping Himself to 50 Feet of Rubber.

Garden hose of good quality sells ordinarily for about 15 cents a foot, but Marion Chase yesterday found it considerably more expensive than that. Fifty feet cost him $100, and he did not get to keep the hose. Besides that, he will get a chance to figure out how much cheaper he could have secured it had he gone to a hardware store in place of Mrs. Reilly's garden, during the next 60 days which he will spend in jail.

Chase helped himself to the hose Tuesday night, but a short time afterwards he was arrested in Colorado Springs by Night Captain John Rowan. He pleaded guilty to petit larceny in Justice Faulkner's court yesterday afternoon, and because he refused further to discuss the case, was given the maximum sentence. Although only 19 years old, he has been in jail before.

Another case on trial in Justice Faulkner's court was that of Roy (Slim) Mason, on the charge of picking the pockets of Frank Brown in the Hiawatha saloon, relieving him of $25 Tuesday night. Decision in his case was withheld pending examination of "Shorty" Thompson, who is said to be implicated in the case.

The blaze created some little excitement, but before the fire department arrived it had been extinguished.

HESITATES TO TAKE ACTION

Senate Committee on Foreign Relations Doesn't Feel Justified to Act on Venezuelan Matter.

WASHINGTON, April 22.—Administration officials have practically abandoned the expectation that the Senate will at this session of Congress authorize the President to take punitive measures against Venezuela for her refusal to refer to arbitration the disputed claims of American citizens and corporations against that country. All the papers in the case are before the Senate committee on foreign relations, and ample time has been given for a thorough consideration of the matter. Public opinion as to the merits of the controversy has not developed to any great extent, the officials say, as a result of the publication of this correspondence and for this reason the Senate committee probably does not feel justified in acting. Persons or firms having commercial interests in Venezuela which would be adversely affected by punitive measures, have urged that nothing be done, while no sentiment has developed in favor of drastic action.

The officers and men of the fleet are much impressed by the lavishness of their entertainment here and at other points along the coast. The remembrances of Los Angeles and San Diego, together with the submitted programs from points to the north, serve as an indication of what their entire stay on the coast will be. Rear Admiral Speirs, in commenting on the subject, today said:

"It is a revelation to me to find such a generous welcome, such continuous hospitality as has been shown to us. It is the first time in the history of the navy that the men seem to lack absolutely nothing to make their time ashore both pleasure and profitable. In all my experience I have never yet seen a place where the men ashore on liberty never lay along the water front for lack of a welcome elsewhere. The strength of the navy rests on the respect and confidence of the people and the best men of the nation will not serve unless their uniform is respected. This is the first time in my experience that the men have met with universal consideration and respect.

"The present cruise is the birth of the navy. The navy without a fleet is simply a mob of ships, and until the creation of the Atlantic fleet we can hardly be said to have had a fleet. We have one now and one that we believe is the equal, if not the superior, of any other of equal number of units in the world."

What the Press Agents Say

LADIES' SOUVENIR MATINEE

"A Run for Your Money" will be the play the Gertie Dunlap company will present at the Opera House today, both matinee and night. They will give a ladies' souvenir matinee this afternoon at 2:30 o'clock. Matinee prices will be: Children, 10 cents; adults, 25 cents. Tomorrow evening they will present their new comedy drama entitled "Colorado." They will close their engagement on Saturday, giving "The Wizard of Wall Street," both at the matinee and night performances.

JOHN DREW AND BILLIE BURKE

The attraction at the Opera House next Tuesday evening will be John Drew and his company in "My Wife." Not since the season when he played "The Second in Command," has Mr. Drew been seen in such a satisfactory role as the present one. The splendid triumph of John Drew in "My Wife" has been one of the notable current events of the season. Mr. Drew's distinguishing characteristics as a comedian have never been more in evidence. The Drew drawl, the Drew dress coat and the finished refined character of the performance as a whole have never been more conspicuous in any play in which he has been seen. The play is one of the most sparkling, dainty and refreshing of modern current offerings. The theme, while affording possibilities of unpleasant suggestiveness, is so deftly and delicately handled that there is not a single suggestion of coarseness in it, and its numerous situations of comedy and intrigue are productive of novel-creasing mirth. John Drew has never had a more auspicious part than that of Gerald Eversleigh, and his experience and superb gifts as a light comedian have never been illustrated to better advantage. The brilliant hit made by Miss Billie Burke, his leading lady, is town talk. Coming unknown to the United States she sprang into immediate notoriety and favor. Her youth, beauty, voice and dramatic ability have placed her in the light of a phenomenon. Mr. Ferdinand Gottschalk, Mr. Morton Selten, Mr. Frank Goldsmith, Miss Dorothy Tennant and the others in the company make up what may be termed an exceptional cast.

FOUR-FOOTED HERO AT THE CRYSTAL

The Crystal presents a very attractive program today. Visitors to date will pack this popular playhouse at every performance. The feature picture film is entitled "The Four-footed Hero," which will be a favorite with all who see it. Next most entertaining is the "Convent Gardener," a picture that is a favorite wherever shown. In addition to these films, a new illustrated song, "For the Red, White and Blue," will be rendered in the usual pleasing manner. The Crystal has proved a great success since it opened and seemed to jump into instant popularity with those who wish a good, clean evening's entertainment. The class of programs being given certainly merits the attendance the Crystal has been receiving.

The pineapple is said to be the most profitable fruit in Florida. Grapefruit comes next.

MAGAZINE NOTES.

No one should fail to read "The Slaughter of the Trees." Emerson Hough's astounding statement of facts that apears in the May number of Everybody's. It blazingly exposes the corruption and wastefulness that is allowed to exist in our forestry conditions, pointing out the undoubted result of our soon having no trees at all.

Hamlin Garland gives the second of his series describing his own experiments and those of great foreign scientists, in the field of psychic research; it is full of extraordinary and amazing developments. Dr. William Hanna Thomson contributes "The Real Self and Drugs," presenting some vital physical and medical truths in an entirely new light; while Ernest Poole, in "A Clearing House for Tramps," gives some sidelights upon the industrial tramp and what is being done for him. Verse is particularly strong this month; Grace Hazard Conkling is the author of a charming series, "Rose Rhymes from a Child's Garden in Mexico," illustrated in color by Eugenie Wireman. Dr. S. Weir Mitchell contributes "Friendship," and there are poems by Archer M. Huntington, Elspeth Grahame, and Arthur Stringer.

Frank A. Munsey on the Business and Political Situation

IN the May Number of Munsey's Magazine, Mr. Munsey has an article on the panic and the causes that brought it about. He says some things and says them straight from the shoulder. He hands it out good and hard to Wall Street and to the Grand Dukes who have been running things in this country with a high hand—running them as the Grand Dukes of Russia have run things over there. The title of the article is

There isn't money enough in the world today to do the world's work

Mr. Munsey takes emphatic issue with Wall Street and the followers of Wall Street who hold the President responsible for the panic. It is not his purpose in the discussion to acquit Mr. Roosevelt of blame, but rather to get at the facts, as the facts are necessary to intelligent progress in the recovery of our business activities.

"If these facts," Mr. Munsey says, "acquit the President, he is, as a matter of common honesty, entitled to the acquittal." What we want to know, and should know, is the truth. And the basic purpose with Mr. Munsey has been to lay bare the truth.

Mr. Munsey in this article clears away a vast amount of the distorted and awfully befogged ideas about this financial crash. The article is clear, convincing, forceful. It is not a dry, ponderous handling of the subject, but is swift and dramatic in expression, with all the sweep and picturesqueness of a novel. You cannot afford to miss reading it. No one who has any interest in the vital things of the day can afford to miss reading it.

BORAH AND ORCHARD.

SENATOR BORAH delivered his maiden speech in the Senate a day or two ago. It was characteristic of the man that in this, his first effort on the floor, he had the courage to attack no less an antagonist than Senator Fargker, and that on a topic to which the latter has devoted a very large part of his time and attention for a year past, and on which he had just made "the greatest effort of his life."

The Brownsville incident, however, is not what we wish to discuss just now, but rather a matter which came in incidentally in the course of the speech of the Idaho Senator. Probably in order to get his position stated clearly and strikingly before the whole country, he took occasion to speak of the movement for respiting Orchard, and denounced that person in the strongest terms, alleging that the sentence of death ought to be carried out, and carried out now.

Mr. Borah was leading counsel for the state in the trials of Haywood and Pettibone. Orchard was his principal witness, and of course there was a report that immunity had been promised to him if he would confess fully. Orchard always denied this, and so did Borah and the other counsel. Possibly one motive of the Senator in wishing now to have the sentence carried out is to prove conclusively that there was no deal for the saving of Orchard's life. However that may be, his speech has brought the matter before the public again, where it has not been since the remarkable deliverance of Judge Wood in recommending a suspension of Orchard's sentence. In that deliverance, it will be remembered, the judge said that he believed Orchard's testimony was true; and he urged his respite on the ground that other indictments were still pending, and Orchard would be a valuable witness for the [illegible] in the trials which will follow those.

Judge Wood agrees with most of those who read, and pretty much all those who heard, the Orchard testimony, that he was telling the truth. The jury that acquitted the defendants undoubtedly believed him. But how much use his evidence would be in any future trial is shown that the juries in the Haywood and Pettibone cases discarded this evidence which they believed to be true, because it lacked sufficient corroboration. Is there any likelihood that in any other trials the corroborative evidence will be stronger? Certainly in no others could Orchard's evidence be stronger than it was in those.

Another point of view is worth consideration, if not for its practical bearings, at least for the "human interest" of it. It is much to be doubted whether anybody is doing Orchard a service in trying to keep him alive. He has refused to ask for clemency—has even indicated that he would not accept it unless compelled to. He still believes that if his sentence is carried out he will go to Heaven; if it is not he will stay in jail. If there is anything at all in the idea of Heaven, certainly anybody ought to prefer a sojourn there to one in prison. Most people wouldn't, just the same; but Orchard seems to be sincere. It can hardly be a religious ecstasy that the man is in; it has lasted too long. It seems to be a calm belief that since he has been so wicked and committed so many crimes, and confessed them and done what he could to make restitution, and since, to use the ecclesiastical formula, he has accepted Christ as his savior, he is certain of going to heaven; and perhaps more certain of it if he in a manner expiates his crime on the scaffold than if he is only kept in jail a few years. That is a state of mind that would be impossible of attainment by most people, but it is one which is intellectually and emotionally intelligible.

Now, from Orchard's point of view, any one who, like Senator Borah, insists that he should suffer the penalty of the law, is doing him a real service. Borah did not do it for that reason—his horror of the prisoner is manifest in his every utterance, and it is clear he is looking at the matter from the point of view of what is due to society and the state, without any regard for the prisoner at all; but it is certainly strange that he and Orchard both agree upon the same practical conclusion—that the sentence of death should be promptly carried out.

In justice to those who are not enthusiastically promoting the passage of the anti-race-track gambling bill in New York state, it is to be said that there are grave doubts as to practical effect of it. The present law restricts the laying of wagers and making of books to the track; those who oppose the bill say that if it is driven from the tracks it will [illegible] lead to the opening of pool-rooms and gambling dens and bucket-shops which will be far more harmful to the community than the betting ring at the tracks. As to the theoretical side which Governor Hughes emphasizes in his message, saying that since the constitution prohibits gambling the legislature simply must do the same thing, lawyers would find a great deal to say. The legislative branch and no other has authority to make certain things or acts crimes. [illegible] shall be no gambling. As to the legislature shall enact suitable provisions for carrying this out. The legislature has enacted what it deems suitable provisions; is it within the province of the Executive to tell the legislature it has not exercised its functions properly? These are nice questions of constitutional law, which it can easily be seen are not to be decided out of hand by the average layman. We mention the doubt as to the practical effect, not as a defense of race track gambling at all, but only to show that the question has two sides to it, and that those who oppose the bill are not necessarily doomed to eternal punishment.

It is time that John Sharp go over his bun of last week and shook the hand of the Speaker in amity. He knows as well as anybody that when a member makes motions to calls for divisions and roll-calls and does everything possible to prevent a vote on adjournment, and that after a six or seven hour session, he is using dilatory tactics. A roll-call is one of his constitutional rights; but the other day when the Speaker overruled him, it was not a roll-call that he demanded, but a division—a walk-around between tellers. Uncle Joe refused to give it to him, and he tried to make out that it was an act of the most unprecedented tyranny. But Williams has a sense of humor, after all, and perhaps it will not be long before he sees the ridiculous side of his position.

CAN'T RUN.

From the Baltimore Sun.

The Populist nomination is only enough to enable Tom Watson to crawl for President.

PRESIDENT EXPECTS TOO MUCH.

From the Chicago News.

President Roosevelt, being a persistent man, is still planning to get some real work out of the present Congress.

BILLS.

From the Sacramento Bee.

Can it be that there will be three Bills in the ring in November—Bill Bryan, Bill Taft and Bill Hearst?

ANARCHISTS.

From the Chicago Inter Ocean.

It does not make so much difference how all those anarchists got into the United States. Our present concern is to get them out, and with as little ceremony [illegible]

[illegible] ZONING.

From the New York World.

The taking of the vote does not end the agitation of the race track gambling issue. The Senators who bowed at the bidding of the gamblers' lobby are hearing from their constituents.

CONGRESS AND THE NEW YORK PLATFORM.

From the Philadelphia Inquirer.

"We believe in the upbuilding of the American navy."

That is a plank in the platform of the New York Republican convention. It will be found in the planks of other Republican conventions. It will turn up again in the convention of the Pennsylvania Republicans on the 28th of the present month.

"We believe in the upbuilding of the American navy." Where is there an American citizen who does not believe in it to the extent of four new battleships unless he happens to belong to the Pull Backs in Congress?

"We believe in the development of the American merchant marine."

That is another plank from the New York platform. It but voices a very general sentiment. And yet a committee of the House, by an adverse report, seeks to throttle the bill for development which has got through the Senate. Shall that strangling committee have its way?

"We believe in the improvement of the inland waterways."

Still another plank from the New York resolutions, and it speaks for a multitude of American citizens in every state in the Union.

But a few self-appointed "leaders" are in control of Congress. They assume to direct policies. They undertake to dictate to individuals what shall and shall not be done.

Well, the responsibility, after all, rests upon the shoulders of the individuals.

Most of them know full well what the country expects of them; that it wants the navy increased by four battleships; that it favors the rehabilitation of the merchant marine; that it is very much in earnest in demanding that the work of developing the inland waterways be pushed.

It is the individual Congressman who has got to face his constituents.

What answer is he going to make to them if four battleships, the merchant marine and the waterways are denied them?

That he was too cowardly to defy the Pull Backs and act upon his own judgment?

We fear that such an excuse would prove fatal in many instances.

PLAYING WITH THE FIRE.

From the Chicago Tribune.

Some dilettante gentlemen socialist [illegible] the ear of a credulous, impressionable workingman and makes him believe that he is a greatly injured person who is being robbed of his rights. He is told that he cannot get them until there are great social and governmental changes. They do not come, and the disheartened workingman turns from his amiable instructor and hearkens to the anarchists, who tell him that only a bloody revolution will gain him his rights. Then he makes a bomb and sets out to kill some policemen or buys a pistol and tries to kill a chief of police. Thereupon the preacher of socialism who started the workingman on his downward path says he is inexpressibly shocked. No doubt he is, but he ought to have reflected on the danger of playing with fire.

The men who set out to hold a mass meeting of the unemployed and who persisted in their project even after the police had refused a permit and the courts had refused to enjoin the police ought to have known that they were playing with fire. The mass meeting, even if held, could have served no useful purpose. It merely would have given the orators of socialism an opportunity to make inflammatory speeches and perhaps start a riot. The man Silverstein would have been there with his bomb and the list of killed and wounded would have been longer.

These socialists who grasp at the opportunity to make windy speeches at open air meetings know that anarchists will be there ready to make trouble. They know that there may be a bomb thrown as there was at the Haymarket. Yet they insist on playing with fire, but when something serious happens disclaim all responsibility with an air of injured innocence and blame the police.

The man Silverstein may have had no accomplices. There may have been no other man with a bomb near Union square, though there were many anarchists, but Saturday's events will make the New York police investigate the anarchist colony more closely than they have hitherto. If they do they will doubtless find many who are eligible for deportation. The Secretary of Commerce and Labor has announced himself ready to take care of all against whom sufficient evidence can be produced.

BRYAN AND SUPREME COURT.

From the New York World.

There is evidence that Mr. Bryan and his friends contemplate another assault upon the United States supreme court.

In the Minnesota and North Carolina rate cases the court has been guilty of the high crime and misdemeanor of holding that the Constitution of the United States is the supreme law of the land, and that in the regulation of commerce no act of a state legislature is valid which imposes penalties so drastic that they deny to any railroad or to any corporation its day in court.

The Omaha World-Herald, Mr. Bryan's personal organ, notes with satisfaction that the next President will probably have the appointment of four supreme court justices, and says: "Therefore, if you want to escape radicalism it is your duty to vote for the Republican candidate and a conservative supreme court." But it concludes that the average man will prefer to vote against "a conservative supreme court such as has been handing down the notable, not to say astounding, decisions of the last several months."

Twelve years ago the Democratic party, under Mr. Bryan's leadership, proposed to pack the supreme court in order to reverse the income tax decision. The Democratic party has been out of power ever since. If it wishes to remain out of power for twelve years more there is probably no more certain way of achieving such ambition than to begin another campaign to break the Constitution and pack the supreme bench.

THE MAN AND HIS JOB

By Herbert J. Hapgood

The mark of recognition in the high-grade employe is that he is equal to all occasions. Whether salesman, clerk or executive, he will be able, as the prizefighters say, "to meet all comers." He can sell a bill of goods just as readily across a table laden with a plank steak and entrées of expensive demeanor, as over the counter in a store. If his customer is of the "ham and egg" sort, the high-grade salesman will be perfectly at home buying him a lunch at a popular priced restaurant. On the other hand, his customer may be president of a railroad buying one thousand miles of steel rails. The high-grade business getter will be just as comfortable with him as with the "ham and egg" buyer, and will know how properly to entertain him.

A house which does business with big men must have a representative who can be just as big a man as the next fellow. In dignified self-confidence he must feel at all times on the same level as the man with whom he has to deal.

There is nothing more harmful to the business welfare of an establishment, for instance, than to have in its employ clerks of a cheap and unintelligent character. Such employes, not being able to fit all occasions and raise themselves, at least for the time being, to the social and intellectual level of their customers, lose thousands of dollars which can never be recovered. High-grade clerks earn the difference in salary twice over by the demonstration of courtesy alone.

"Kindly take my card to the manager," requested one of the largest customers of a New York jobber, as he came into the store for the first time.

"Pardon me," replied the shabby looking individual, who sat at a desk near the door. "Pardon me, but I am the manager."

If you are a manager, don't look like an office boy. Be high-grade enough to look the part, act the part, and feel the part.

A friend of mine tells me that he always feels like a millionaire. In spite of the fact that he is a man of but moderate income. There are no millionaires among his acquaintances, and he probably never saw one at close range; nevertheless, if he had to do business with the richest man in the world he would have the personality to carry him through; he undoubtedly would be equal to the occasion.

He had that nameless something—that mark of recognition peculiar to the high-grade man. He was prepared to "meet all comers," and was at all times big enough for the occasion.

Sheriff Smith was not a little dismayed the other morning when he picked an envelope from his mail box and read the following astounding statement:

"I don't love you any more. Guess we'd better part forever."

Three initials, unfamiliar to the sheriff, were signed at the close of this heart-breaking confession, which nearly prostrated Crook county's guardian of the law. Deputies Haner and Macleod soon restored the sheriff to his normal condition, and a closer inspection of the envelope revealed the fact that through an oversight the sheriff had opened a letter addressed to his twelve-year-old son, Stanley.

NEWS OF THE LOCAL COURTS

Gilbert H. Peterson was arrested by a sheriff's officer yesterday, on an attachment of contempt of court issued by County Judge Robert Kerr, and was placed in the county jail pending a hearing. Peterson is thought to have violated an order of the court regarding a divorce suit in which he recently figured.

Nellie Somers has filed a suit in the county court for divorce from Charles Somers on grounds of nonsupport and desertion. The couple were married in Colorado City, September 23, 1906. A peculiar feature of the complaint is the plaintiff's allegation that her husband deserted her on November 18, 1906, less than two months after their marriage. Mrs. Somers, who was only 15 years old when she married, desires to resume her maiden name of Pennington.

A motion to compel the plaintiff to make his complaint more specific was filed by the defendant company in the district court yesterday, in the case of Manuel Finkelstein vs. the Denver & Rio Grande Railroad company.

Pauline Torst yesterday secured a divorce in the district court from William Torst, Jr., on grounds of nonsupport and cruelty. They were married in San Rafael, Cal., May 12, 1903.

The Noble Foss case, which has been removed to Lincoln county on a change venue from this county, will not come up in the district court until the October term, since the law provides that cases transferred in this manner cannot be tried until the next term of court.

ENDS ABUSE WITH DIVORCE

Mrs. Ruth Clark Tells Harrowing Tale of Domestic Life and Obtains Separation.

Sick from lung trouble and in a delicate condition, Mrs. Ruth Clark told a harrowing tale of abuse and cruelty during the trial of her divorce suit against H. J. Clark, before Judge Morris in the district court late yesterday afternoon. The plaintiff was awarded a decree, together with alimony of $25 per month. The couple were married in Los Angeles, Cal., October 27, 1905. Just before the trial of the divorce case, Clark was arraigned before Justice W. N. Ruby, charged with assaulting and threatening to kill his wife. The assault charge was nolle prossed and he was placed under a peace bond of $500.

Mrs. Clark recited on the stand that her husband was a habitual drunkard, that he not only struck her and threatened to kill her, but that he also threatened to "sever her head from her body" with a bread knife. She alleged that he used the vilest language toward her and went on a spree because she refused to allow another woman to remain in their house.

Reports That Large Electric Power Companies Will Combine Are Denied Locally.

According to reports from Denver, a gigantic consolidation of the large power companies of Colorado, including the Central and Eastern Power companies of this city, is in negotiation. The reports has it that these organizations will merge with the Northern Power company and the Denver Gas and Electric companies, with William J. Barker, president of the Northern company and vice president and general superintendent of the Denver Gas and Electric company, slated for president of the combine.

The rumor is absolutely unfounded, according to Henry Hine of this city, treasurer and manager of the Commercial business of the local company.

SPEEDWELL TOURING CAR HAS BEEN RECEIVED BY NEWBOLD & CO.

The large six-cylinder Speedwell touring car recently received by Newbold & Co. is attracting a great deal of attention among local automobile enthusiasts. The car is a beauty, is easy running and has a seating capacity of nine persons as well as ample room for baggage.

In this respect it is the largest touring car manufactured. The powerful engines enable the Speedwell to cover the roughest ground and climb the steepest hills with ease. The motor used is the famous Reutenber, which has proven its superiority beyond question. The transmission is of the most modern type. The gears and the shafts are of chrome nickel steel and are absolutely noiseless at any speed. The drive is in a straight line, eliminating excessive wear of the universals, which are unusually large and perfectly dust-proof. The front axle is a one-piece drop forging of beam section, oil toughened, and the rear axle is of floating turn. Mr. Newbold is planning a trip through the southern part of the state in the Speedwell, with a party of friends.

TERM IN PENITENTIARY

DR. ADAMS, BIGAMIST, RECEIVES SENTENCE

Tells Strange Tale of Double Life and Breaks Down Under Penalty Imposed.

Pleading guilty to the charge of bigamy brought against him by Miss Lula Rickmeyer, whom he married only 12 days after his marriage to Lizzie Moore, Dr. Joseph R. Adams was yesterday sentenced by Judge W. S. Morris in the district court to serve from one year to 18 months in the state penitentiary, and to pay a fine of $500. Crying like a child, the prisoner told an unusual tale on the witness stand of his relations with both wives. Miss Rickmeyer, who was affected not less than Adams, also gave evidence.

Dr. Adams related his struggles against poverty to receive an education, his efforts to free his parents from debt, and finally let up to his relations with Miss Lizzie Moore. She was employed by Adams in his physician's office in Pittsburg, Kan. The prisoner said that he had betrayed her and married her when she was about to become a mother, in order to save her name. He claimed that he then told her he would not live with her. The very day after his marriage to Miss Moore, December 2, 1907, Adams wrote to Miss Rickmeyer at her home in New Albany, Ind., arranging to meet her in Kansas City, Mo., with the object of marrying her. This was in accordance with their bethrothal, five years ago. The couple became engaged through correspondence, after a several years' acquaintance.

Married in Springs.

Adams met Miss Rickmeyer in Kansas City and came with her to this city, where they were married by the Rev. C. B. Cross. Adams and wife No. 2 then went to Trinidad, where they lived until December 26. On that date, only 12 days after the marriage, Adams sent his wife back to New Albany on the pretext that he wanted to seek a home for his sick mother.

After waiting two months for news of Adams, Miss Rickmeyer received a letter from him to the effect that he was not fit to live with her, and that he could not love her as a husband should love his wife. The anxious woman immediately started an investigation, and, discovering that Adams had a wife and child living in Kansas, swore to a bigamy charge against him.

Miss Rickmeyer broke down several times while on the stand. She said that she gave Adams $200 when she joined him. Adams later testified that he traveled through Oklahoma and other states, presumably on this money, and finally returned to Pittsburg, where his love for his child overcame him, and he returned to his first wife.

The prisoner, who consulted with the Rev. Mr. Cross, the pastor who performed the marriage ceremony between Adams and Miss Rickmeyer, threatened to commit suicide. He was much agitated by the sentence, and declared that he can never pay the fine of $500.

Prior to Adams' trial in the district court, he waived examination before Justice O. R. Dunnington and was taken into the higher tribunal on a direct information filed by the district attorney's office.

A MENACE TO CHILDREN

Movement to Stop Motor Cycles Running Through College Grounds.

A petition signed by many leading citizens of the north end has been presented to the board of trustees and faculty of Colorado College, requesting that motor cycles be not allowed to pass through the college grounds. So many children pass back and forth from the San Luis school and from elsewhere that serious accidents have been threatened by the high speed of these cycles through the college park.

Mr. S. B. Bowen, of Wayne, W. Va., writes: "I was a sufferer from kidney disease so that at times I could not get out of bed and when I did I could not stand straight. I took Foley's Kidney Cure. One dollar bottle and part of the second cured me entirely." Foley's Kidney Cure works wonders where others are total failures. For sale by all dealers.

BATTLE MOUNTAIN APEX GIVING GOOD RETURNS.

Several Lessees Operating Property. Dick Curry Has Best Lease. Recent Find Reported.

Special to The Gazette.

CRIPPLE CREEK, April 22.—The lessees operating on the Battle Mountain Ajax are shipping out from 600 to 750 tons of ore a month, and work is being done throughout the mine. The ore is averaging about $30 in gold to the ton. The best lease now on the property is said to be the one held by Dick Curry of Victor, who has opened up ore in two places, and has one vein about five feet wide. There are several others who are doings nicely on this well-known property. The Ajax company is not mining any on its own account at the present time. The shaft has been sunk to a depth of 1,000 feet and there is not a finer plant of machinery in the camp than is to be found at the Ajax. There are several shafts on the property which have been sunk to a depth of 250 feet, and generally by lessees, who found it more advantageous to sink that to drive from the old or main workings. Graded royalties are exacted and most of these leasing on this ground are making shipments and some money.

STOCK MARKET NARROW

TRADING IN SECURITIES DULL AND ON SMALL SCALE.

Pennsylvania Bond Issue Most Prominent Influence on Exchange. Bonds Steady.

NEW YORK, April 22.—The most prominent influence on the stock market today was the Pennsylvania bond issue. Although the official announcement of the details of the issue was not named until late in the day, enough was known of the transaction to stamp it as of first-rate importance as to bearing on the financial situation, present and prospective. This importance was attached to it primarily because it marks the first sale of a long-time security by any railroad corporation in a period of many months, during which recourse has been had necessary to short-term note issues bearing onerous rates of interest.

The sale of a long-term railroad bond issue to a syndicate of bankers, therefore, was regarded as highly significant of the definite passing of an era of impaired or suspended credit for railroad corporations, which made severe difficulties for them in the carrying on of important activities in improving and extending their capacities. The fact of a large portion of the new bonds having been placed abroad aroused hopes of the opening of a way to tap the great stores of foreign capital to aid in the resumption of profitable activities in this country.

Remembrances were awakened of the important part played in the financial revival in 1897 by the successive issues of $50,000,000 of bonds by the Lake Shore and of $100,000,000 by the New York Central. These refunding bond issues bore 5% per cent interest in both cases, and their successful flotation came at an opportune time to effect the refunding of large maturing issues of high interest-bearing bonds of those companies. Much deceptive speculation was indulged in over the supposed new era of cheap capital which was dawning for the country without due perception of the large part played by the prolonged business stagnation in piling up idle funds in bank reserves and keeping timid capital out of employment.

The present $40,000,000 Pennsylvania issue—a first-rate security bearing 4 per cent and sold at a discount of several points—shows some marked contrasts with the stagnant money markets which facilitated the Vanderbilt refundings in March of 1897.

The day's market was dull and reflected no expansion of interest beyond the narrow professional limits in which it has been held for some time. United States Steel and Union Pacific were effective leaders in sustaining prices, supplemented effectively by the advance in Reading. The strength of United States Steel was based largely on the personality of the buyers and of the inferences of their influential connections in the steel industry which were drawn. Union Pacific was helped by some rumors, one of which was that arrangements had already been made for placing a large portion of the intended bond issue abroad. These rumors were without any verification.

Money on call was slightly firmer, influenced by the large engagements of gold for export, which reached $6,500,000 for tomorrow's French steamer. The volume of these shipments was not a surprise and the stock market treated it with indifference. The foreign participation in the Pennsylvania bond issue is expected to lessen the pressure for remittance abroad and to clog the gold outflow. Union Pacific sold on a parity with the previous high price for the year, and United States Steel within a fraction of that level. Those two stocks were alone in that distinction. The influence of the Pennsylvania bond issue in the trading was seen in the profit taking by traders after the late announcement.

Bonds steady. Total sales, par value, $3,506,000. United States bonds were unchanged on call.

ORE OF HIGHER TRADE

VALUES ARE INCREASING IN MONTE CHRISTO.

Upraising From El Paso to Connect With Monte Christo Shaft Is Almost Finished.

Special to The Gazette.

CRIPPLE CREEK, April 22.—The Julia V. Leasing company, operating on the Monte Christo claim on the Magnet Rock company on Beacon hill, has come into a much better grade of ore recently and shipments will be started at once. The management for some time has been upraising from the El Paso to connect the Monte Christo shaft, and this work is now about finished. There has been for several years large bodies of low grade ore to be found in this property, and this rock can now be shipped at a profit, owing to the low freight and treatment charges which are in force. The Julia V. company will probably give average returns of about $18 in gold to the ton. The shoot varies in width from eight to 15 feet, and has been opened up for a considerable distance on the 350-foot level.

VALUES RETURN $25 AND $30

Ore Shipped From the American Eagle of Fair Grade.

Special to The Gazette.

CRIPPLE CREEK, April 22.—Messrs. Hayden and Price, who secured a lease on the American Eagles on Bull hill from the executors of the Stratton estate, have subleased a portion of this ground, and are also breaking ore in several different places in the main workings. The American Eagle's shaft is over 1,500 feet in depth and there are several miles of laterals extended. The grade of ore which Messrs. Hyden and Price are shipping is reported to be running between $25 and $30 in gold to the ton. They are doing considerable development work as are most of the sublessees.

WHEAT PRICES HIGHER

NET GAIN OF 3-8C IN MAY DELIVERY AT CLOSE.

Market Is Irregular Greater Part of Day—Corn Weak; Oats Firm; Provisions Weak

CHICAGO, April 22.—Wheat for May delivery advanced nearly 2c on the local exchange today on renewed buying by shorts and bull leaders. At the close it showed a net gain of 3/8c. The July delivery closed 3/4@7/8c higher. July corn was down 1@1c; oats were unchanged and provisions were unchanged to 2½c lower.

The wheat market was irregular, the May delivery being strong during the entire session, and the more distant deliveries quite weak at times. The market was decidedly strong the first half hour, owing to an urgent demand for the May option and to the scarcity of offerings of that option. Small receipts in the northwest and the firmness of European markets were the factors on which the demand was chiefly based. Later in the session sales of the July and September deliveries became quiet and quite liberal owing to a break in corn and to favorable news regarding the new crop in the southwest. This tended to offset the effects of the congestion in May. The market closed irregular, May being firm and July and September barely steady. May opened a shade to 3/8@5/8c higher, at 95¼@95⅝, advanced to 96⅞ and closed at 96⅝c. July sold between 87⅞@88c and 83¼c, and closed at 87½c. Clearances of wheat and flour were equal to 128,000 bushels. Primary receipts were 318,000 bushels, compared with 733,000 bushels the corresponding day a year ago.

The corn market was weak almost all day, because of heavy selling of the July and September delivery by leading commission houses. Excellent weather for farm work and for the movement of grain to market was the weakening influence. Shorts were the principal buyers, the bull leaders making little pretense of supporting the market. The close was weak, May opened unchanged to ¼ to ½ lower, at 66¾ to 67⅛, sold at 67⅛ and then declined to 66¾. The close was at 66⅝@⅔c. July sold between 62½c and 63½@⅝c and closed at 62⅝. Local receipts were 180 cars, with 12 of contract grade.

Oats were quite firm early in the session of the day, owing to the bulge in wheat, but the late weakness of corn had a depressing effect, although the close was steady. Trade was of light volume. May opened ⅛c higher, at 53⅝, advanced to 53¾ and then declined to 53½c. The close was at 53½c. July ranged between 46⅝c and 47⅛c and closed at 47⅛c. Local receipts were 129 cars.

Provisions were rather weak at the start in selling by commission houses, which was based on a 10c decline in live hogs. The market rallied later in the day as a result of buying by shorts and closed steady.

TO ENFORCE ORDINANCE

All Vehicles Must Have Right Side to Curb When Standing.

Chief W. S. Reynolds has instructed the police department to begin next Monday with the enforcement of the new traffic regulation ordinance compelling all drivers of vehicles to face them so that the right side is toward the curb. In other words, a vehicle, when standing at the curb must face in the same direction as though in motion. At first the police officers will merely instruct all drivers as to the new regulation, but later violations will be punished.

LOOKS GOOD FOR G. O. P.

Prohibitionists in Denver Will Support Republicans.

City Auditor George M. Pery has returned from a brief business trip to Denver. He says that the Republican reform ticket appears to be gaining ground and that the most encouraging symptom is the abnormally large registration of women. This signifies a large local option vote, which element will support the Republican ticket in Denver.

CONTRACTORS AT WORK AT ROBBINS'

The work of remodeling the Tejon street front of the Robbins Clothing company has begun and within the next few weeks this progressive firm will have some of the finest display windows in the west.

The remodeling has been delayed somewhat pending the arrival of the steel structures, which have just arrived, but now the work is being pushed to its completion.

Meanwhile the Robbins company is giving the public the advantage of big price cuts on new spring merchandise, choosing to lose money on sales rather than having the stock damaged by dirt and dust.

CAN YOU DIGEST STARCH?

Starch that is half-digested ferments and breeds germs and these cause appendicitis, and other bowel disorders. In the making of the starch in the wheat is converted into dextrine by our scientific malting process thereby partially digesting the food before it enters the stomach. The "sunny" food the sustaining food.
"FORCE" is made of the best white wheat, steam cooked, rolled into thin flakes, combined with the purest barley-malt and baked. Always "crisp" it before serving it by pouring into a pan and warming it in oven. Then serve in large dish with cream, piling the flakes in one side of the dish and pouring the cream in the other side, dipping the flakes as eaten.
Your grocer sells it. No other Flaked Food is "just as good."
